

Our Partners

Ian Cugley, a Fellow of CPA Australia, is the founding partner of CCB and has over 30 years experience in accounting and business management. He also has a Graduate Diploma in Public Accounting.

Ian's detailed knowledge of many business sectors is supplemented by special expertise in the aged care and hospitality industries. A former executive of a major hospitality chain, and with a long association with the aged care industry, Ian can provide personal insights of both and guide clients in an informed manner.

Phil Ciravolo, also a CPA and a Fellow of the Taxation Institute of Australia, was initially employed for 12 years in the Australian Tax Office before joining CCB in 1980. He has wide experience in advising on taxation and accounting matters from the perspectives of both compliance and forward planning. Phil holds a Diploma of Business (Accounting).

Phil is heavily involved in business management and strategic planning for clients across a diverse range of industry sectors, and has on a number of occasions been a director on the board of client companies.

The Team at CCB reflects the partners' professionalism and attention to individual client's needs. We apply a system of internal checking ensuring your work is processed promptly and accurately - the first time.

We'd like to help you

The difference is peace of mind

Cugley Ciravolo Bordin - the difference is peace of mind

We believe the role of an accountancy practice extends well beyond simply "looking after the books".

We see ourselves in partnership with you, not only providing reliable, comprehensive accounting services, but also advising on ways of better managing your business and improving profitability.

The pressures of today's highly competitive markets mean you must focus intensively on developing your core business. At the same time, you have to comply with the complexities of taxation, superannuation, annual reporting and other laws and requirements, as well as ensuring that your business plans appropriately cover your strategic and other needs.

We aim to provide services where "the difference is peace of mind". You can rely on us, knowing you won't have to worry about the accuracy and timeliness of the results. You can be confident that we are reliable and professional and able to understand your requirements beyond your basic accounting needs.

That concept of all round care has helped us grow from a one person practice in 1978 to our current skilled and committed team of partners, managers, accountants and a range of supporting professionals. Our clients come from a broad range of business sectors including -

- Aged Care
- Hospitality
- Information technology
- Manufacturing
- Motor Vehicle Repairers
- Investors
- Building Trades
- Architects
- Retailers

The "peace of mind" factor

Successful managers focus on the strategic development of their firm. But they must be confident that the supporting information and advice on which they base their decisions are timely, comprehensive and accurate.

Our reputation as a reliable financial adviser is built on attention to detail accompanied by an ability to predict your needs. We monitor developments and alert you in advance to the potential impact of changes, giving timely advice on how best to react.

Because of the range of business sectors already being serviced, we are also aware of the different needs of most businesses. We are able to provide individual service packages which ensure your requirements are met promptly and appropriately.

The great majority of our clients result from referrals by existing clients. This testifies to the fact that our services provide the level of assurance that lets you concentrate on running your business.
